ENGL Guided Self-Placement

Students should read the statements below to help determine which ENGL class is the best placement.

I should enroll in a college-level English course (1000 level or higher) if most of the following statements describe me.

- I comfortably read and understand high school textbooks, magazines, or newspapers.
- I have written high school papers of 4 or more pages and received A/B grades.
- I am familiar with terms like thesis statement and topic sentence and have used them in school papers.

I should enroll in a pre-college level English course if most of the following statements describe me.

- I have written 2–3-page papers in high school and received passing grades.
- I have successfully read and understood high school textbooks, magazines, or newspapers, even if I read slowly.
- I am familiar with terms like thesis statement and topic sentence but want more practice using them in my writing.
- I would like a basic review and some extra support with reading skills, essay writing, and identifying inference, evaluating arguments and demonstrating essay-level writing skills.
- Sometimes I needed extra help in high school to complete reading and writing assignments, but for the most part I was able to work on my own.
